The fashion show, scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday on the first floor at Sears will portray the variations of fashions that can be sewn for spring wear. A group of clear, fresh colors and gentle, eased shapes will keynote the preview.

Mother and daughter favorites, sportswear, suits and feminine dresses that can be made by the home sewer are to be included.

Demonstrations on selection, fitting and altering of patterns together with other sewing tips are scheduled by Miss McKaskell for 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and for 10 a.m. Wednesday. The lectures, available to the public, will be held in Sears employees' meeting room on Sears second floor.
